

Montana Herbal Comfrey Salve

Comfrey is from a Latin word meaning “to grow together” and has traditionally been used as a herbal remedy to knit bones and heal wounds. Comfrey Salve when applied topically to the skin is a valuable healing tool.

Comfrey is a treasured herb that has been found to work in the following ways:

- Contact Healer (relieves pain & starts healing on contact)
- Cell Proliferant (accelerates the healing process)
- Reduces Inflammation
- Increases Circulation
- Acts as an Anti-fungal and Anti-bacterial compound
- High in Calcium, Vitamin C, Carotene, B12 and chlorophyll

Comfrey has been found to cause cells to divide at an increased rate, thus healing bones and wounds more quickly. Comfrey salve can be applied to the skin for wounds, skin ulcers, joint inflammation, bruises, arthritis, swollen veins, gout, fractures and much more.

Our manufacturer has over 20 years formulating comfrey products and has created a very powerful Patent pending Proprietary formula.

USES:

Comfrey Salve can be used topically to treat the following conditions: wounds, sores, acne, athlete's foot, bunions, bedsores, blisters, boils, skin ulcers, insect bites/stings, rashes, psoriasis, seborrhea, ringworm, sunburn, arthritis, fractures, sprains, inflammation, muscle injuries, varicose veins, blood circulation and much more.

PROPERTIES:

Comfrey has natural anti-bacterial, anti-inflammatory and anti-fungal properties. It provides pain relief, softens skin and stimulates cell and tissue regeneration, helping to speed the healing process. It also helps to stimulate blood circulation and reduce swelling. In the case of wounds and skin ulcers, it can pull infection from the underlying tissue.

Ingredients:

Proprietary formula containing Comfrey, Licorice Root, Extra Virgin Olive oil, Vitamin E oil and beeswax.

DIRECTIONS:

For aches and pains, apply a small amount to affected areas and massage, use as frequently as needed. If using on a wound or sore, apply 2 times per day and cover with a bandage after application.

PRECAUTION:

Comfrey should only be used topically and never taken internally. Ingestion of Comfrey can cause liver damage.

TESTIMONIES

You had to see it to believe it!

I host a book club meeting at which I often serve snacks. At our last meeting, I made some hors d'oeuvres on toothpicks. Unbeknownst to me, one of the toothpicks fell on the floor and managed to embed itself sideways halfway in and out of the carpet. A day later, I was walking barefoot through the house (lesson to be learned) and the toothpick and my big toe met in a violent manner. It went half an inch deep into the side of my toe, below the joint, causing unbelievable pain. Pulling that toothpick out was perhaps worse than having it go in. I won't go into the gory details, but within minutes, the affected area had swollen to twice its normal size. I soaked it in hydrogen peroxide several times during that day and the next, but my toe kept getting worse. It had turned bright red, remained swollen, throbbed, and bruises appeared in the surrounding area. I was sure I would end up in the emergency room with a serious infection.

Then I remembered I had received the Comfrey Salve a few days prior. I hobbled over to my medicine cabinet and applied it. The directions say to massage it into the affected area. I really had to grit my teeth to do this because barely touching my toe was agony. Imagine my surprise and sense of relief when just an hour later, the redness began to subside. Another couple of hours and the swelling had gone down significantly. I applied it several more times during the day and by evening I was actually able to massage the salve in without grinding my teeth down to stumps. Surprisingly, even the bruising disappeared. Now, less than a week later, there's only a pinprick of a scab to remind me of my ordeal. No emergency room required!

This experience convinced me that the Comfrey Salve is all they say it is and more. I never want to be without it and plan on giving it to family and friends; especially to those with children and grandchildren (who seem determined to scare us out of our wits with their cuts, and scrapes, and fractures, oh my!) The little jars will make great stocking stuffers.

I am over weight some and I was sweating while doing some activities. I got galled so bad between my legs I could hardly walk, my friend gave me some of the comfrey salve and I put it on it felt wonderful it helped me with the pain and I could walk with out embarrassment by the next evening I would have never thought I was galled it worked so well.

This is the best topical healing ointment I have ever used!!

I have used the Salve for joint and muscles aches and it relieves the pain right away. I have also used it for skin irritations and it seems to speed the healing process. I recently dropped a very heavy item on my foot and it was very painful, swollen and black and blue right away. I applied the comfrey salve and the pain went away within an hour. I kept applying it periodically to my injury and within a day the swelling was gone and the bruising that had begun was reversed. I continued to use it for the week that followed as I needed it for pain, within that week my foot was back to being as good as new. This is an amazing healing ointment and I will always have a jar on hand!
